

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In order to provide a print system capable of push printing a print document consisting of a plurality of files formatted differently, an HDD unit 12 of the print system according to the present invention is a print data providing apparatus which provides a printer unit 13, connected to the print data providing apparatus via a transmission line, with a print document consisting of a plurality of print data files described in different formats and includes a storage subunit 12a which archives the plurality of the print data files into a single file and transmits the archived file to the printer unit 13.